Ten of the dead have been identified as French people. The remaining eight have not been identified.

The crash was one of the worst that has occurred on French refive way lines in recent times. The shattering of glass and tearing of wood as the cars left the track and tumbled together in a crumpled mass, coupled with the screams of the injured and dying were heard for miles.

AILING HOUSEWIVES WELCOME OWA-TON-NA

Dizziness and Backaches Disappear When This Fine Old Indian Remedy Is Used

Mrs. John Murray, 1033 Phoenix street, Chester, W. Va., in conver-sation with the Owa-Ton-Na representative tells how Owa-Ton-Na helped her. She says; "I have been suffering with a great deal of indigestion and awful attacks of sourness and gas.

"I had heard so much of the good Owa-Ton-Na had been doing for other people, and knowing that it was a harmless remedy, decided to give it a trial. It just seemed to take hold of my condition and removed that tired, worn out feeling as if by magic. My stomach acts fine and when I eat I don't have to be afraid of those gas and bloating pells, headaches and backaches.

My bowels are acting regularly. Owa-Ton-Na just seems to cleanse ie system from top to bottom. If anyone is suffering as I have they don't have to suffer any longer as Owa-Ton-Na will give them a big surprise if they try it. I can highly recommend Owa-Ton-Na to all who suffer."

You, too, can enjoy better health.

Slaying Giants

Educators and pseudo-educators, in search of late factories, something to rant about, regularly turn to the topic of imaginative literature for children. Little folks must cease reading fairly tales and nursery rhymes. They must bring their reading up to the level period when a fairy tale is an important part of the day's routine.

Miss Marie Duggan, who is a member of the bureau of education at Teachers' college in Columbia university, is the latest to bewail the imaginative tales of Louis Carroll, Hans Christian Anderson and Grimm. Mother Goose, too, characterized as a collection of pomes devoid of rhyme and reason, is placed on the black list. There are no talking animals or elves in real life, so why should children be allowed to read such nonsense, Miss Duggan asks, Alice Hare and the Mad Hatter and the Old Woman who lived in a shoe, are nothing more than the mad fantasies of eccentric scribblers. Thus is the whole question settled, so far as the lady educator is concerned.

Miss Duggan has kicked the world in a sensitive spot. Much as human beings would like to see their children become super-scholars, there is a place to stop and childhood imagination is sacred ground. The development of that quality in the young is assurance of adult vision.

The poems and stories which seem rather absurd to those who have forgotten their childhood continue to make profound impressions on the plastic minds of the young readers of today. Did a belief that violet beds were inhabited by fairies and elves, that the Easter Rabbit really was responsible for the brightly colored Easter eggs, or that Santa Claus was a jolly, generous gentleman hurt you? Will the same harmless little conception hurt your

At birth, man sees the "light that never was on land or sea;" while young, he basks in its fading brilliance; finally, it "fades away and the grown man sees the light of day." Children learn of a fantastic world through books and try to put their beliefs into practice. They fail, but when they are grown to manhood, when they have lost their illusions, do they regret the imagination which made the world seem brighter and gayer than it is? No. Let children read Stevenson, Field, Milne and all the others while they can appreciate them. They will take up stock market statistics, bloody crime stories and Lusiness accounts soon enough.

he Virginian' (Now at the Amreican)

IST a playful big boy from the South was the Virginian and quite naturally the pretty schoolma'am from Vermont mis-understood his pranks. When he helped hang his friend, the happy-go-lucky Steve, for cattle stealing, she was amazed. But, in the end, she came to understand the relentless pioneer handling of justice and to love her Virginia cowboy.

Owen Wister wrote this story as a best seller of thirty or years ago, and the late Dustin Farnum played the foreman of Box X Ranch behind the footlights. Still later, in 1923, he acted him for the old silent films of the Lasky Company. Now The Virginian becomes an all-talkie for Paramount with the gauntly personable Gary Cooper as the cowboy from Dixie. And any way you look at it-this new Virginian tops them all.

Just as in the old stage play and on the printed page, the high point is the duel between the Virginian and the evil Trampas, first of the great cattle thieves and a fine pioneer scoundrel. The frontier town of Medicine Bow retires to its hide-aways and leaves the field clear for the two enemies to settle their little differences. There is a superb sequence as the two wander cautiously up and down the deserted streets in quest of first blood. Back in the little hotel waits the schoolma-am, for it is the wedding day of the girl and her Virginian-if he

THE ARSONIST

-a Discouraged Criminal

More and more is the arsonist becoming a discouraged criminal. So relentless is the search—so greatly improved are the methods of detecting the evil deeds of this foe to all society—that fires started either for revenge or unlawful gain, are steadily decreasing in

Through the Arson Department of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, the Stock Fire Insurance companies work day and night to apprehend the arsonist.

The Arson Squad-composed of a large number of specially trained men-operates quietly and effectively with the police and fire departments and with fire marshals, to guard the public against incendiarism.

The pitiable but dangerous pyromaniac, with his abnormal mind, also is being curbed.

Model Arson Laws

Legislators in more than half our states have amended their laws to more effectively check the operations of criminals who endanger the lives of others in their desperate efforts to profit illegally through destruction by fire. Other states are joining the movement.

Lives and property are becoming safer as a result of ceaseless vigilance against this crime of crimes.

Even more gratifying results will follow a keener realization of the menace and cost of incendiary fires. There are many ways in which the public may cooperate in aiding the authorities to punish the guilty.

A copy of "The Crime of Crimes," an interesting booklet on arson and incendiarism, may be had upon request.

SPRINGFIELD, III.—The query of the barber of yesterday who asked as he prepared to comb a customer's hair, "Wet or Dry?" is the riddle that confronts Illinois Democrats as the senatorial draws nearer.

However, Illinois Democracy's question of moisture is not one of water but one of liquor.

And while Republicans face only a bitter contest for nomination for the Senatorial toga, the opposing party must first settle the pesky question of their stand on prohibi-

See Fading Issue.

National Democratic senatorial headquarters, apparently seeing the liquor question as a fading issue, has shown a strong inclination to leave it to whoever may desire to support it and to cling to others which headquarters believe may be productive of more votes. Illinois minority party leaders, however, have different views and have opened headquarters in Chicago with that issue as a hefty plank in their platform, now under construction.

Michael Igoe, Chicago, and Bruce Campbell, East St. Louis, some have it, will take this matter directly to the people of the state.

Democrats have been pushed rather sharply aside in recent struggles at the polls and are determined to make a better showing at the coming senatorial con-See Fading Issue.

Question Bobs Up.

The liquor question again bobs up as the result of reported divergent views of Chicagoans and downstaters. Party leaders believe that to secure the numerous votes needed from Chicago voters that the party must be dripping wet. Downstate leaders doubt the wisdom of such a stand on the liquor question in the rural areas outside the metropolis and a common ground must be reached on this matter.

Meantime, Republican senatorial candidates are at it hammer and tongs. Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCommick's friends have been boosting
